

St. Mary's Catholic Church

Greenville, South Carolina

5 February 2017

Dear Friends in Christ,

I was only six years old in 1968, so my memories of that momentous year are dim and mostly about life in the first grade. But in that year, it seemed to many that the United States of America was coming apart at the seams. Riots in more than 100 cities left charred ruins in their wake, the campuses of our elite universities were convulsed with Marxist revolutionary ardors, and two leaders of global importance - Martin Luther King and Robert Kennedy - were gunned down in their prime. 1968 was also the year that the Democratic National Convention in Chicago turned into a disaster of violence in the streets and chaos in the hall. In short, 1968 was a year of violent deconstruction of the moral, cultural, social, and political fabric that was the foundation of public life in this country, and in some ways, we have never fully recovered from those dislocations. But it was not only in civil society that such upheavals were taking place; similar battles were being waged inside the Catholic Church.

The Second Vatican Council ended in 1965, and the forces of renewal unleashed by that epochal meeting of our bishops very quickly turned to agitations for upheaval. Settled ways of life in the Catholic Church that had prevailed for centuries were overturned almost overnight in the name of updating the Church for renewed fervor in fulfilling the Great Commission. But very quickly instead of our energies being directed at our mission to the world, too many Catholics became obsessed with internecine struggles that began to tear at the fabric of the Church's unity. The perfect icon of this inwards turn came in July 1968 when Blessed Pope Paul VI published his encyclical On Human Life which reiterated the Church's ancient and constant teaching about the immorality of all attempts to separate sexual pleasure from openness to procreation. The violent rejection of the pope's teaching - including by priests and theologians - was every bit as acrimonious as the chaotic Democratic Convention in Chicago, and it left the Church just as polarized as the racial and political upheavals left the nation.

I think now of 1968 - that year of turmoil and unraveling - because to many people it seems that fifty years later we are approaching a similar time of crisis in both the nation and the Church. The election of President Trump has unleashed furies that tear at the fabric of civility, and the leadership of Pope Francis has brought long simmering theological disagreements into public view. It can be disconcerting to see the president exchanging public insults with senators or journalists, and it is certainly bewildering to watch as cardinals, bishops, and theologians engage in rancorous public debates with each other and with the pope or to hear the pope hurling insults at those who disagree with him. So, in such a time of turmoil, what are we to do?

Search for wisdom. Work for the common good. And remember that Jesus Christ is Lord and His victory over sin and death is already won. Praised be Jesus Christ. Now and forever.

St. Mary's 101 - Morning Assembly, Part 3: Our Father

The Our Father, also known as the Pater Noster in Latin and the Lord's Prayer among Protestants, can be found in Matthew 6.9-13 and in Luke 11.1-4. "[Jesus] was praying in a certain place, and when he had finished, one of his disciples said to him, 'Lord, teach us to pray . . .'" (Luke 11.1):

"Our Father, who art in heaven, hallowed be thy name; thy kingdom come; thy will be done on earth as it is in heaven. Give us this day our daily bread; and forgive us our trespasses as we forgive those who trespass against us; and lead us not into temptation but deliver us from evil."

When Protestants pray the Our Father with a group of Catholics, they are often surprised because Catholics have less words in the prayer. This last segment of the prayer which Protestants are used to praying with the Our Father is called a doxology. A doxology is a short hymn of praise to God. Though the words are slightly different, Catholics pray a doxology along with the Our Father during Mass – it just takes place after the priest prays the embolism. (The embolism is like a side note within the prayer which emphasizes the last petition "deliver us from evil".)

When praying the Lord's Prayer, we first call upon God as a Father. Here, we acknowledge God's holiness and express a desire for His kingdom. In the second part of the prayer, we ask for our own needs: both physical and spiritual. The Our Father is a beautiful part of our tradition which unites all Christians. It guides us with the words of Christ directly to the heart of the Father.

Club Feature - Music Department Choralfest

Students from St. Mary's Catholic School, Our Lady of the Rosary, Prince of Peace, St. Joseph's Catholic School and St. Mary Magdalene Catholic Church came together Jan 19-22 for Choralfest. There were 40 students across our schools and parishes that came together to share the gift of song and their love of music. A huge thank you to Jeanie Reed (music specialist at Stone Academy and director of Chicora Voices) who guest conducted.

Visit our Facebook page for a video of the performance which took place at Prince of Peace.

Dominican Sisters of St. Cecilia

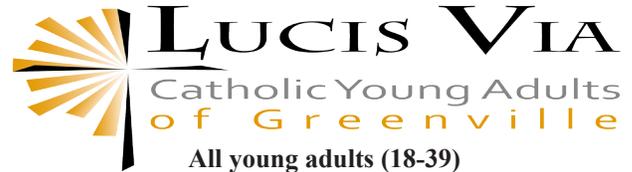

Jesu Caritas Retreat: 10-12 March

These weekend retreats explore different topics that are a focus within the Church, offering spiritual insight for those who love the Church. These are opportunities to speak with the Sisters and to meet others who have an earnest desire for God. Retreats are open to single, Catholic women, ages 17-30.

Vocation Retreat: 24-28 May

These five-day retreats are designed for young women who are discerning their vocation and provide an opportunity for them to explore the life and charism of the Dominican Sisters of St. Cecilia. Those on retreat attend talks on St. Dominic, the spirituality of the Order, Marian devotion, the Divine Office, discernment and the formation process. Panels on vocations and the apostolate allow retreatants to hear testimonies and to ask questions. Retreatants join the Novitiate for recreation, visit with the retired sisters, and go on a tour of several schools of the Congregation.  An interview with the vocation director is necessary before registering for the Vocation Retreat. Space is limited, so please register early. **
